Regency Food Australia specialises in supplying quality meat and smallgoods to a range of catering companies and individual restaurants. Regency Foods was started in September 2000 by Rob Tomlinson with a goal to service customers, applying four business values; Quality Product, Exceptional Service, Consistency of Supply and Competitive Pricing. Rob has been in the meat industry since the early eighties, starting as a butcher at a young age and then from the early ninety's as a wholesale supplier.

Regency Foods Australia understands that customers individual needs are of paramount importance. They will discuss with you and identify the range and quality of product that best suits your menu and budget. They believe that great food starts with great ingredients, that is why they encourage feedback from their customers so that they always maintain high standards.
